IN PROTEST AGAINST CONTINUATION OF THE SUBMARINE WAR

More Than 50 Submarines Are Said to Have Disappeared

London, Aug. 7.—Rumors of a revolt by German sailors at Wilhelmshaven in protest against continuation of the submarine war are in circulation, according to a dispatch to The Express from Amsterdam.

It is reported that propagandists among the men incited sailors about to leave on submarine cruises to attack their officers and surrender their ships or seek an opportunity to sink them and get themselves interned in neutral harbors.

More than 50 submarines are said to have disappeared.

PACKAGES MUST BE PROPERLY LABELED

Unless Butter, Cheese and Maple Product Packages are Marked You May Have Trouble.

Unless makers of butter and cheese and producers of maple products have their packages properly labeled, showing the net contents of the package, and in case of cheese also state whether it is made from skimmed or part skimmed milk, they are apt to find themselves called before the federal authorities for violation of the package marking law, according to a statement issued at the office of M. R. Tolstrup, field agent in marketing, this morning.

The following extract from a letter received from the United States bureau of chemistry, Boston station, is self explanatory:

"For your information, I am enclosing a copy of the net weight amendment, which, as you will note, states that all food in package form must be plainly and conspicuously marked with the net contents in the terms of the largest unit. This means, of course, that any syrup shipped out in one gallon cans must have the statement 'One Gallon' plainly and conspicuously marked on the main or principal label.

So far this year we have taken a number of samples in the Massachusetts market and since in the Maine market, of Vermont syrup and in almost every case we have found that the cans lack proper designation of net contents. In all these cases the individual shipper has been cited to a hearing, and as you know, citation to hearing is a step which is taken before recommendation is made for prosecution. While I am not at liberty to say that these individual shippers will not be prosecuted for the first offense, I do feel certain that in the future, whether it be the first offense or not, they will be looked upon as a violation upon which the shipper has had information, and there will be little or no excuse for recommending permanent abeyance on such cases.

For this reason, I believe it would be well to call attention as much as possible to all shippers of these products, to the requirements in order to avoid unpleasant results.

In regard to the marketing of cheese, the bureau requires all skimmed or part-skimmed cheese to be plainly labeled or branded with the word 'skimmed' or 'part-skimmed' upon the wrapper or container of each individual cheese, as well as upon the case in which a number of small cheeses are packed.

Skimmed or part-skimmed cheeses of a size commonly sold uncut to the consumer, and not enclosed in a wrapper or other individual container, must be branded or labeled, in accordance with the fact, on the rind of the cheese itself.

Large cheeses, skimmed or part-skimmed, which are not enclosed in a wrapper or other covering than the wooden drum or box, and which are commonly sold to the consumer in segments or slices and not as entire cheeses, need not have the brand or label on the cheese itself, but only on the drum or box. If, however, any circular or printed matter be enclosed with such cheese, it must bear in conspicuous type the words 'Skimmed' or 'Part-Skimmed' in accordance with the fact.

CANNOT BRING SUGAR FROM CANADA

Must Have License or You Are Performing an Illegal Act and Subject to Punishment.

Montpelier, Aug. 7.—The importation of wheat, sugar and wheat products in any quantity from Canada unless an individual license for such importation has been requested of, and granted by, the war trade board in Washington, is no longer legal and persons who make such importations without a license are performing an illegal act and are opening themselves to punishment.

News of this decision of the war trade board has been received by the state food administration officials here from Washington, the United States food administration quoting from a war trade board letter as follows:

"This will notify you that the war trade board have revoked any general license under which sugar, wheat and products of wheat may be imported from Canada and that individual licenses will be required after Aug. 1."

This should, in the eyes of the state food administration put an end to the practice indulged in by some who live along the international border, of going into Canada and purchasing flour in an unpatriotic attempt to avoid the 50-50 order. No simple phase of regulation has been more difficult than this and the story of how the new war trade board order was brought about is very interesting.

Some time ago it was reported to the then acting food administrator that flour was being brought in from Canada. This was verified and served as the basis of representations to Washington. As a result, after somewhat lengthy negotiations, an order was issued from Ottawa instructing the Canadian customs officials not to permit the exportation of flour from Canada except in proper cases and the grocers of the dominion were instructed not to sell flour to Americans.

The volume of trade showed a decrease after this order, but it was not stopped. The United States customs weekly furnished to the state food administration officials a list of American importers of flour, and with this information in hand the administration has the basis for whatever action against those who have been seeking to avoid compliance with the 50-50 order may seem advisable.

The trade was not completely stopped, however, and when it was learned that bread was being imported from Canada, new efforts at correction were made. The result is that no wheat or wheat products or sugar can now be imported by any resident of the United States unless a special license is secured from the war trade board, and a license will not be issued except where trade conditions warrant it, it is expected the practice will be wiped out entirely.

Now that a definite basis for action has been placed in the hands of the government to deal with such cases they will be dealt with directly and it will no longer be necessary to resort to exhortation and patriotic appeals. It puts all on the same basis and proximity to the neighboring dominion which happens to be a big wheat growing country, will not place the individual in a favored status as regards flour. Canada has been making heavy exports of flour to the allies, thousands of barrels passing through Vermont alone on their way to the seaboard, flour which had been purchased by the Wheat Export Co., for the allies. In fact, the flour stocks of the two countries are held in common so far as shipments to the allies are concerned, and even though the flour had been bought in Canada, the act was diminishing the common stock for foreign shipment.

THE LAST MAN'S CLUB.

His Duty to Meet and Drink to Departing Brother and Disband.

Stillwater, Minn., Aug. 7.—There was one more vacant chair this year when the ten surviving members of the Last Man's club, formed in 1896 by thirty-three veterans of the company, First Minnesota volunteers, in the war between the states, held its annual reunion.

The company was one of Minnesota's crack forces in the Civil war, and every member of the club had distinguished himself in battle.

Each year the survivors have met, clasped hands and smiled at death. Each year the empty chairs draped in black that encircle the banquet table have increased in number.

When the Last Man's club was organized members purchased a bottle of rare wine. Some day the lone survivor of the club will enter the banquet hall, pop the cork from the bottle and drink a toast to his dead companions. Then, standing before the row of empty chairs, he will read and adopt a resolution declaring the club disbanded.

HOG PRICES DISAPPOINTING.

New High Records for War Time Established at Brighton Stockyards.

Brighton, Mass., Aug. 7.—Hogs were advanced at the Brighton stockyards yesterday, being about a cent higher than they were a week ago for both live and dressed. Those who were looking for lower prices for hogs were disappointed in the way the market turned, new high records during the war having been established during the week.

Live hogs were quoted at the yards yesterday morning at 19@19½ cents for the best lots, possibly a fraction more for a fancy lot. Rough lots sold at 18@19 cents. Arrivals were fairly heavy, in spite of the heat, as the present range of prices is attractive to both growers and shippers.

Dressed hogs have been advanced again, the packers now quoting 24½@25 cents, the highest prices ever known. This compares with 23½@24 cents a week ago, and 20½@21 cents a year ago.

Beef stock was slow, with buyers indifferent, but calves have stiffened again. One pair of fancy Hereford steers was offered yesterday morning, for which the shipper was asking 16 cents, but this was said to be above the market.

Buyers were quoting fancy tops at 15@15½ cents and average tops at 11@12 cents; good cattle at 9@10 cents and light cattle at 8@9 cents. Good average beef cows were selling at 8@9 cents, an occasional fancy cow going at 10 cents or better. Good cows sold at 6@7 cents, ordinary cows at 5½@6 cents, and canner cows at 5@5½ cents. Fancy bulls sold at 9@10 cents, occasionally higher, with average bulls at 7@8 cents and bologna bulls at 6½@6 cents.

A much firmer market for calves is reported, the best fancy small lots selling at 17 cents or better. Bunch lots selling at 16@17 cents, and fair lots at 15@16 cents. Grassers and drinkers are 10@12 cents.

Sheep and lambs continue to arrive in small lots. They are quotable at 17 cents for best lambs and 10 cents for sheep.

Material shrinkage is seen in local packing operations. Boston packers report a kill of 10,500 hogs for the week, compared with 23,000 for the preceding week and 16,000 for the same week last year. Since Jan. 1 the total by Boston packers has been 872,500 hogs, compared with 791,000 for the same period in 1917.

Milk cows were in heavy supply yesterday, but the market was dull. Buyers were slow to get to work on account of the heat. Prices are held well on the recent level, ranging from $50@60 for ordinary milkers to $150 and better for fancy milkers.
